STORY OF THE WEEK

When Reb Avraham Elya Pinson was just a young boy, he wandered off from his father in front of 770, just as the Rebbe was leaving his room. Realizing he was lost he became frightened and quickly started looking around for his father. Seeing a man with a kapota and hat, the boy ran over to him, thinking it was his father. Not knowing it was the Rebbe, Avremal started pulling at the kapota and tugging at the Rebbe's hand. The Rebbe kindly looked at the boy with a smile, held his hand and continued walking together. The boy's mother, witnessed the entire scene in complete shock and utter embarrassment from the side. As soon as she came home, she wrote a letter to the Rebbe expressing her embarrassment, because of the "pain" her son caused the Rebbe. Within a day or two she got a letter back from the Rebbe. In the letter the Rebbe crossed out the word "pain" and wrote on top of it "on the contrary" it caused me huge pleasure, thank you!
